

Kevin MacLean with his wife, Jo-Ann and daughter, Adrianna own and operate Ripplebrook Farm in Nappanee, Ontario. Ripplebrook milks 130 cows in a sand bedded free-stall barn where 90% of all the cows are scored GP or higher, including the very first excellent Goldwyn world-wide in 2006. Throughout Kevin's life, he has accomplished more than the average person. In 2001, he graduated from the Advanced Agricultural Leadership Program and in 2006 and 2009, he was a finalist for the Outstanding Young Farmer Competition. After graduating from the University of Guelph's agricultural program, Kevin sold feed for Purina from 1994 until 2000. Furthermore, he is a huge advocate for the dairy industry as he always embraces opportunities to host tours throughout his farm for youth groups, service groups and school trips. Throughout Kevin's judging career, he has had the opportunity to judge multiple 4-H shows, Breeders Cups and regional shows.
